Statement Regarding the Coronavirus (COVID-19)

The College of Charleston continues to closely monitor the novel coronavirus (COVID-19) outbreak and its impact on current and prospective students and will continue to take appropriate actions to support and safeguard the university community.

Current students can learn more about our response to this outbreak by referring to the Emergency Management webpage found at emergency.cofc.edu.

Admissions Changes for Fall 2020 Applicants

To accommodate the constantly changing economic environment, the College of Charleston MBA program is making several changes to its admissions process. We understand the impacts the coronavirus outbreak is having on employment both locally and nationally and want to offer both support and opportunities for students who plan to pursue graduate education.

1. All application fees are waived for the MBA program. Use code GSOMBA2020.
2. The deadline for applications and admissions documents is extended to June 1.
3. Standardized test waivers are available for qualified individuals.

Standardized testing continues to be a challenge for many students. If you are able, you are encouraged to register for the at-home testing options offered by the GRE and GMAT. There are benefits and challenges to both, you are advised to review the requirements of each to identify which is best for you.

Test waiver requests are considered for qualified individuals. If you plan to request a waiver, first apply and submit all required documents. Applicants are required to interview before a test waiver can be considered.
