Learning Objectives: Broadly, ACCT 418, Intermediate Accounting III, has six learning objectives:

1. Students will understand leases and distinguish between capital and operating leases as well as make appropriate journal entries from the perspective of both the lessor and the lessee.

2. Students will be able to account for liabilities (and assets, in some instances) booked based on extensive projections and estimates, such as those established for deferred income taxes, pensions, and other post-retirement benefits.

3. Students will be able to describe the components of shareholders’ equity, including comprehensive income, and treasury stock, and be able to post appropriate journal entries related to equity accounts, including option- and share-based compensation.

4. Students will understand the reporting requirements for Earnings Per Share, both basic and diluted.

5. Students will identify the differences between various categories of accounting changes, be able to make appropriate journal entries for each type of change, and fix errors of the past in current accounting records in a manner consistent with GAAP.

6. Students will be able to construct a Statement of Cash Flows using the indirect and direct methods.

Intermediate Accounting III is a required course in the undergraduate program and critical for the accounting students’ academic success. The course primarily relates to the undergraduate accounting program’s learning objective of conveying functional knowledge of financial accounting. In some instances, problems and assignments relate to promoting awareness of the ethical responsibility of accounting professionals. The content of this course directly relates to the School of Business learning objective concerning quantitative fluency as the assignments and problems are predominately quantitative relating to financial transactions in the context of audited financial statements and the financial position of reporting entities.

Each student must adhere to the College of Charleston Honor Code and Code of Student Conduct (see Student Handbook on these policies). All work you turn in for a grade in this class must be 100% your own work.

Attendance Policy- Attendance in this course is mandatory. Examinations and assigned materials will require attendance of all lectures. Make-up examinations are not given. Late assignments are not accepted. If you are to be absent, assignments must be submitted prior to the due date with prior professor approval. More than 5 absences will result in the withdraw of the student from the course. This course is to be treated with the same respect you would treat professional employment. Meaning if you were going to not come to work, show up late to work, or need to leave work early, you would reach out to your supervisor and discuss all of these instances ahead of time. In the same manner, if you are going to miss class, be late, or leave early, you are expected to reach out to me ahead of time and discuss this deviation from the schedule.

In extreme cases exceptions to the absence policy may be made on an individual (case-by-case) basis. These exceptions will only be considered with appropriate documentation requested by the professor. However, I will not give a make up exam under any circumstance. If a student misses an exam with documentation that is deemed extreme (serious illness, death, hospitalization, etc.), the grade of the lowest test score for the semester will be substituted for the missed exam. This exception will only be made in extreme circumstances with proper documentation and my prior approval.

Social Media Policy: As a student in this course you are prohibited from sharing school, faculty, or student images, videos, or classroom work samples on social media or other platforms. Failure to comply with this policy may result in a failing grade and/or disciplinary action.

I reserve the right to dismiss you from the course permanently if I deem your breach of the Code of Conduct severe.
